2025 Builders Eligibility List Overview

This is the list of individuals eligible in the election that will choose a Builder to be inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame. This list is based on the criteria that were established by the Board of Directors of the Hall of Fame in April 2007 and modified in 2020.

Because non-playing accomplishments are not subject to the sort of statistical recordkeeping that playing accomplishments are, it is sometimes difficult to determine who has and who has not met the criteria. However, the Hall of Fame’s historians have examined all the available materials and made determinations that with a few exceptions, the people on this list have met the criteria. The exceptions apply to people who were already on the Builders Eligibility List before those definite criteria were established and who are over 50. Those people have been “grandfathered” onto the list whether they have met those criteria or not.

The criteria are that candidates must be at least 50 years old or deceased (for purposes of the 2025 election, this means that living candidates must have been born before Jan. 1, 1975) and must have had a positive impact on American soccer at the national federation or first-division level lasting at least 10 years. There are several exceptions to this:

1. In addition to coaches in American first-division leagues and U.S. national teams, credit toward meeting that 10-year standard also is given to Americans coaching in the first division or national team of any country that has ever qualified for the World Cup and the second division of any country that has ever won the World Cup.
2. In addition to officials of the USSF and first-division teams and leagues, credit toward meeting the 10-year standard is also given to the top leaders of certain organizations closely affiliated with the USSF and first-division leagues.
3. A few people who do not otherwise meet the criteria have been added to this eligibility list via a nomination process, described below, involving the administrators of the Hall of Fame.

Beginning with the 2022 election, a rotation system has been employed under which Builders elections in certain years are being limited to referees only, to coaches only or to contributors only (largely meaning administrators and team owners). The entry for each candidate on this list includes a notation of which of those three categories the candidate falls into. The 2025 Builders election is an All-Builders year.

Two restrictions to this eligibility list are that elected officials and full-time employees of the USSF or the Hall of Fame are not eligible while they hold those positions, and persons on the suspended lists of FIFA, CONCACAF, the USSF the IOC, the NCAA or the USOC are not eligible.

In the case of the contributor category, individuals must have retired from their roles within the U.S. Soccer membership for a period of three calendar years or be deceased. Notably, exceptions to this requirement are extended to contributors who have been featured on the NSHOF Builder Semifinal ballot and/or the NSHOF Builder Final ballot since the year 2019. Additional exceptions can be made as determined by the NSHOF Board of Directors.

2025 Builder Nominee List Overview

Due to the broad general nature of the criteria, nominations for this category will be considered. Nominations are screened by the Hall of Fame staff and historians to determine the accuracy of the nomination materials.

The individuals on the Builder Nominee List have received a waiver from the Hall of Fame to be considered during the 2025 Screening Process.

Screeners should treat Builder Nominees the same as any other Eligible Builder for the purpose submitting a preliminary ballot.

If a Builder Nominee is named to a Preliminary Ballot by any Screening Committee Member, the Nominee will be added permanently to the Builder Eligibility List. If a Builder Nominee does not receive any support during the Preliminary Ballot Process, they must wait five years before being nominated again.

2025 Builder Nominee List Biographies

William Garrett (deceased)

Dr. William Garrett, known as Bill or Billy, significantly advanced U.S. soccer through his sports medicine expertise. As U.S. Soccer medical director (1990-2010), he enhanced medical care for national teams. His pioneering research on muscle strain injury and contributions to skeletal muscle and exercise physiology earned him international recognition. At Duke University, he oversaw medical care for soccer teams and collaborated with Nike to establish Krzyzewski Human Performance Lab. Garrett expanded U.S. Soccer's medical coverage, promoted head injury awareness, and developed field-based testing programs. His dedication and innovations profoundly impacted soccer in the United States.

Colin Jose (born January 12, 1931)

Jose, a legendary researcher, profoundly impacted American soccer history and the National Soccer Hall of Fame. Author of nine books, he chronicled the North American Soccer League and the original American Soccer League. As the Hall of Fame's historian (1997-2007), he established and meticulously organized its archives, preserving crucial historical records. His research debunked myths, such as the presence of six British ex-professionals on the U.S. 1930 World Cup team. Jose's dedication to uncovering and documenting the sport's history has left an enduring legacy in American soccer.

Bora Milutinovic (born September 7, 1944)

Milutinovic, a Yugoslavian-born coach, led the United States men's national team from 1991 to 1995, significantly impacting American soccer. He guided the U.S. to its first international tournament win at the 1991 CONCACAF Gold Cup, highlighted by a historic 2-0 victory over Mexico. His most notable achievement was advancing the U.S. to the second round of the 1994 World Cup, following a key win against Colombia. Milutinovic's tenure marked a transformative period, establishing the U.S. as a competitive force in international soccer.

Pia Sundhage (born February 13, 1960)

Sundhage, coach of the U.S. women's national team from 2008 to 2012, led the team to significant success, including reaching the 2011 Women's World Cup final and winning two Olympic gold medals. Under her guidance, the U.S. women triumphed at the 2008 Beijing Olympics, defeating Brazil 1-0, and secured another gold at the 2012 London Olympics by beating Japan 2-1. Sundhage's tenure was marked by a record of 91 wins, 6 losses, and 10 ties. She was named FIFA Women's World Coach of the Year in 2012, leaving a lasting impact on U.S. women's soccer.
